

Ireland's Hidden Independence Day/ Turning of the Sovereign Seal

The Sovereign Seal is the Harp with Eire below it and must be elevated above every Judge in every Court. It consists of 12 strings (devised from the four elements our five senses and the trinity) . A 13th string was adapted as it is the execution string for the Judge to secure a just determination in Court. It was originally worn as a Torc by the Brehon for the same purpose as it would tighten around the neck if the ruling was against the principles in Law.

The Sovereign Seal was adopted by the Presbyterian McGuire family and Irish Republican Brotherhood/Sovereign Republic as the National emblem, for all. All information that pertains to the existence of mankind is embedded in it, ie all knowledge to sustain man on the planet (Please see Irish history/ you tube link below). Ireland is the only nation in the world that has adopted a musical instrument as it's national emblem, representing man's intellect and reason, it is pre-Biblical. The McGuires were the largest salt traders in the world at one time with an street named after them 'Maguire Street' (Anglicised), in the city of London near Tower Bridge. Pat McGuire who had taught Christopher Columbus how to read the compass was also in attendance to the court of king Ferdinand and Isabella of Spain. Martin McGuire who was the father of William James McGuire;the current custodian of the Sovereign Seal, was personal friends of American President JFK. He was also personal friend with the Fourth President of India; President Giri and India obtained their Independence through the IRB GCHQ, Vaughan's Hotel Parnell Square Dublin as a result. The present National flag of India is green,white and orange, the horizontal tricolour with the sunburst in the centre.

It is mandatory for the Taoiseach,Ceann Comhairle and Chief Justice to witness this Ceremony, as their Seal of office derives from and under the Sovereign Seal. The Indian delegation is in attendance every year to acknowledge the origin of their Independence. The Sovereign Dail and Courts were established in the Mansion House on January 21st 1919 at noon, Ireland's National Day of Independence. All members of the Garda Siochana and defence forces must wear the Harp on their buttons,seven strings for Gardai and eight strings for Soldiers. It appears on all Govt. documentation and all licences and coinage must bear it, unlike modern Euro notes which do not bear the words 'Legal tender' on them.

All Irish People became Sovereign, 'on the record' in 1919 and have the Lawful right to self determination regarding the Home,family life,liberty,freedom, assets, free access to our extensive natural resources and an unhindered existence. All People are invited to come celebrate their enduring sovereignty by attending this open event.

A fascinating history lesson is guaranteed on the day.

Mansion House, Dublin 2. January 21st,12 noon.
