

The Praxis and Pedagogy group at GradCAM present:

Kojin Karatani

Tuesday October 26th 2010, 4 - 6pm
Project Arts Centre, East Essex St., Temple Bar

Kojin Karatani is the most significant intellectual figure to have emerged from Japan in the last three decades. This is the first lecture in Ireland by the world-renowned political theorist and philosopher. In his acclaimed Transcritique: On Kant and Marx (2003) Karatani developed a theory of ethical economic practice understood through forms of associationism such as Co-ops and Local Exchange Trading Systems [LETS]. In 2000 he played an important political role in founding the New Associationist Movement [NAM] in Japan.

Prof. Karatani will be in Ireland to discuss his forthcoming book On the Structure of World History – a timely analysis of revolution and repetition in history.

This is a free public event, however, places are limited, and booking is strongly recommended. Please send an email to: praxis@gradcam.ie to reserve your place.
